Integrated Diversification Strategy in a Single Account

Through the Personal Wealth Portfolios, you have access to a wide range of mutual funds, separate account managers and exchange-traded products. Moreover, you can combine these investments in one place, giving you a high level of diversity with the convenience of a single account.

By utilizing an “integrated” approach to diversification like that used in the Personal Wealth Portfolios, you can fully diversify your portfolio with the added convenience of sophisticated portfolio management features provided through the Personal Wealth Portfolios’ Overlay Portfolio Management Group.

The Overlay Portfolio Management Group coordinates the trading activity of separate account managers, mutual funds and exchange-traded products, while considering your customization requirements for risk, tax and portfolio restrictions.

There is no guarantee that a diversified portfolio will enhance overall returns or outperform a non-diversified portfolio. Diversification does not ensure against market risk.

Best of All Worlds: Separate Accounts, Mutual Funds and Exchange-Traded Products

The Personal Wealth Portfolios give you and your financial advisor the ability to utilize separate accounts, mutual funds and exchange-traded products within one account.

Separate Accounts: Customized for Maximum Flexibility

Separately managed accounts offer the features of individualized, professional money management combined with the benefits of owning individual securities. Typically employed by large institutions and pension plans, separate accounts extend the potential advantages of flexibility, tax efficiency and control to your portfolio.

The main benefits of investing in separate accounts include:

- Direct ownership of securities
- Investment access to institutional money managers
- Ability to screen securities based on ethical and economic considerations
- Opportunity to incorporate tailored tax management strategies

Mutual Funds: Diversity and Value

Mutual funds provide you with an added layer of diversification to complement your separate account holdings. Through mutual funds, you have access to a well-diversified portfolio of equities, bonds and other securities. The primary potential benefits of investing in mutual funds include:

- Broad diversification—each mutual fund invests in dozens to hundreds of individual securities, diversified by company size, investment style and geographical location.
- Access to institutional managers who are experts in their respective disciplines and have proven track records of performance.

Exchange-Traded Products: Targeted Implementation

Exchange-traded products may be used to passively replicate an area of the market or target more precise areas of opportunity that the markets present. Exchange-traded products typically:

- Are based on an underlying index
- Are not actively managed
- Provide precise, targeted exposure

While separate accounts have many benefits, they are also subject to risks, including loss of principal.

Investing in mutual funds involves risk, including possible loss of principal. Investments in specialized industry sectors have additional risks, which are outlined in the prospectus.

Any performance information discussed in regard to the managers will represent past performance. Past performance does not guarantee future results. There is no guarantee that a specific investment strategy will produce a positive outcome in volatile or declining markets.

An investment in Exchange Traded Funds (ETF), structured as a mutual fund or unit investment trust, involves the risk of losing money and should be considered as part of an overall program, not a complete investment program. An investment in ETFs involves additional risks such as not diversified, price volatility, competitive industry pressure, international political and economic developments, possible trading halts, and index tracking errors.

Behind the Personal Wealth Portfolios: Objective, Ongoing Research

The primary objective of LPL Financial Research is to provide high-quality, unbiased research support to its nationwide network of financial advisors. In leveraging the research and recommendations of LPL Financial Research, your financial advisor is relying on an experienced and objective partner.

Depth of Research

Each investment manager selected for inclusion in the Personal Wealth Portfolios is subjected to a thorough evaluation and ongoing monitoring by LPL Financial Research.

The LPL Financial Research team carefully reviews the investment process and business background of each manager prior to its selection.

This includes:

- Conducting peer-group analysis
- Evaluating risk-adjusted returns
- Calculating market performance in both up and down markets
- Studying performance attribution
- Quantifying a manager's style consistency

In addition, LPL Financial Research conducts a review of the organization itself, including management and employees, infrastructure, performance, compliance and growth issues.

LPL Financial Research analysts meet with money managers in person and maintain an ongoing dialogue through on-site visits, conference calls, industry conferences and questionnaires to track both the management process and the individuals behind the investment decision.

Manager Selection

By including separate accounts, mutual funds and exchange-traded products, the Personal Wealth Portfolios further diversify your account to meet your investment objectives.

Each asset class within the asset allocation model enables you and your financial advisor to choose from leading institutional money managers, mutual funds or exchange-traded products. These are chosen through the rigorous selection process used by LPL Financial Research, which has classified securities within each asset class as having conservative, moderate or aggressive investing styles. You and your financial advisor have the ability to choose the type of security in each asset class of the portfolio to best meet your investment risk tolerance.

LPL Financial is one of the nation's leading diversified financial services companies and the largest independent broker/dealer.*

At the heart of the Personal Wealth Portfolios is a sophisticated overlay portfolio management process that enables your financial advisor to deliver a custom investment strategy.

Sophisticated Management Features

The Personal Wealth Portfolios utilize overlay portfolio management to help implement and maintain the custom investment strategy created by your financial advisor. Specifically, the overlay portfolio manager coordinates trading, manages tax lots, rebalances asset class weightings and helps control risks, while considering your customization requirements.

Portfolio Customization

Through the direct ownership of securities, the separate accounts in the Personal Wealth Portfolios give you greater flexibility to customize your investment. By working with the overlay portfolio manager, your financial advisor will be able to administer portfolio customization and restrictions on individual securities or social classes of stocks based on your preferences. For example, you may wish to exclude your employer's stock or another security to which you already have significant exposure. Or you may wish to exclude a security or an industry on the basis of social considerations.

Tax Management

The Personal Wealth Portfolios provide you and your financial advisor with the potential to minimize unnecessary tax exposure. Through overlay portfolio management and/or model selection, your financial advisor can work to help you achieve tax optimization for your portfolio through the following strategies:

- Tax management strategies where transactions in your account can be implemented with a view toward minimizing tax consequences.
- The capability to sell specific shares (tax lots) where the cost basis is more favorable from a taxation standpoint. In addition, sales are monitored to avoid the unnecessary realization of short-term gains.

Ongoing Account Maintenance and Monitoring

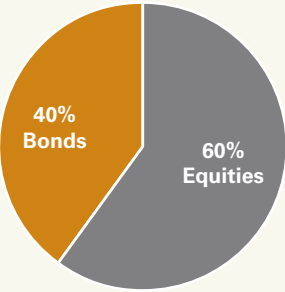

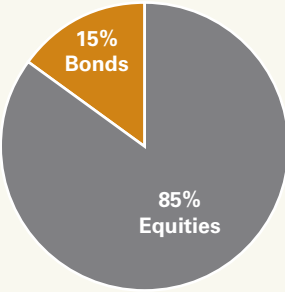

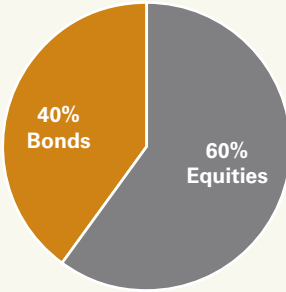

The Personal Wealth Portfolios provide your financial advisor with an array of superior portfolio management services to help maintain the integrity of your account and track its progress.

Rebalancing*

As a result of the market fluctuations of one asset class versus another over a given period, all portfolios drift over time from their original asset allocation. Rebalancing is an essential component of any comprehensive investment strategy and will help you avoid undue shifts in your portfolio due to financial market trends.

Your portfolio will be rebalanced annually across all separate account, mutual fund and exchange-traded products holdings. This means that you can rest assured that your customized asset allocation remains in place and that your investment program stays on target with your financial objectives.

*Rebalancing may include tax consequences.

Original Allocation	Non-Rebalanced Portfolio	Rebalanced Portfolio
 40% Bonds 60% Equities In the example above, a growth with income portfolio begins with an asset allocation of 60% equities and 40% bonds.	 15% Bonds 85% Equities If the performance of the investments pushes that mix to 85% equities and 15% bonds, the portfolio is now riskier than the desired allocation.	 40% Bonds 60% Equities By rebalancing, your portfolio could avoid this type of market-driven change and keep it in line with your objectives and risk tolerance.

This example is intended to demonstrate the effects of rebalancing and is not intended to project performance. No strategy assures success or protects against loss. Past performance is not a guarantee of results.

Detailed Performance Reporting

To help keep you abreast of your investment portfolio's performance, a detailed performance report is delivered to you and your financial advisor on a quarterly basis. This report includes a summary of the performance of your overall portfolio, as well as each asset component, for the quarter and longer trailing periods, as well as a breakdown of realized gains and losses over the most recent quarter.

All Inclusive Fees

You'll enjoy a full range of consulting, advisory and management services for one annual fee which will be charged quarterly.

There are advisory fees associated with a Personal Wealth Portfolios account. Please see the LPL Financial Personal Wealth Portfolios Program Form for more information about the advisory fees. In addition, there are fees and expenses associated with mutual funds and exchange-traded products that may be held in a Personal Wealth Portfolios account.
